Celtic v Motherwell

KICK-OFF 7.30 p.m.
OFFICIAL PROGRAMME 10p

DIXIE SCORES AGAINST HIS FORMER TEAM

TONIGHT'S Premier League game with Motherwell is the second meeting of the Lanarkshire team with Celtic this season — but they've still to play two other games at Fir Park.

Celtic should have made the trip to Motherwell on New Years Day but the frozen ground caused the game to be postponed and a new date for the fixture has still to be found.

In the only game of the season so far, on October 30, 1976, Celtic took both points with a fairly comfortable 2-0 victory. Kenny Dalglish scored both Celtic goals.

HIGH HOPES

In recent years matches between Celtic and Motherwell have been terrific encounters and have invariably produced a fair ration of goals.

Looking back to the two league meetings of the 1973-74 season we found that each club won on their home ground.

In October 6, 1973, Motherwell under the guidance of Ian St John, came to Celtic Park with high hopes of getting a result but left Celtic Park empty handed after the ninety minutes of action.

THE TEAMS

The teams on that occasion were:-

Celtic: Hunter; McGrain and Brogan; Murray, McNeill and Connelly; Johnstone and Dalglish; Deans; Callaghan and Wilson. Substitutes: V. Davidson and P. McCluskey.

Motherwell: McCrae; Miller and Wark; Watson, Muir and Goodwin; McCabe and Graham; Goldthorp; McClymont and Martin. Substitutes: Lawson and Muir. Referee: Mr R. Marshall.

Manager St John promised that Motherwell would have a go at winning the match and that the defend and hope for a draw tactics were out.

Motherwell did in fact make a real game of it and they fought Celtic all the way before going down finally by 2-0.

Paul Wilson and former Fir Park favourite Dixie Deans were the Celtic marksmen who put paid to Motherwell hopes of beating the league champions on their own ground.

When Celtic travelled to Fir Park a few months later for the second meeting, they were quickly into a two goal lead and looking set to collect another two points.

HIT THEM

Motherwell had other ideas however and Celtic didn't know what hit them as the home team fought back to equality and finally to notch the winner much to the delight of their support.

However this unexpected set back didn't stop Celtic going on to win the Scottish League title for the ninth successive year.

In last seasons four league meetings Celtic won one and lost one at Celtic Park and in the Fir Park games they collected three points with a win and a draw.

Cup Draw is fine — but League still the priority

SO IT IS Dundee once again in the Scottish Cup. The fourth meeting in five years gives the impression of a permanent fixture in the tournament, though I'm not displeased with the draw considering our record against the Dens Park side.

It also throws up the possibility of an Old Firm final . . . a match that would give some drama to the event at the end of the season.

However, at the present moment we are just happy to be in the semi-final draw. The final is a long way off yet and while people keep talking about us completing the double there a lot of critical games yet to be faced.

The immediate priority is the Premier League. We're in a pretty good position here . . . but only so long as we keep winning. With tonight's game against Motherwell and Rangers at Ibrox on Saturday that's easier said than done.

PERFORMANCE

Motherwell are always difficult opponents. They went out of the Scottish Cup last week-end, and they'll want to bounce back against us tonight. As always we can expect them to "lift" their game and they have the players of skill and sharpness to win against the best.

The Parkhead players know what is wanted of them in this one and against Rangers at Ibrox . . . their best possible individual performance blended into the team pattern.

Given that our Premier League position on Saturday should still have us with a championship chance.

Injuries to Roddy McDonald and Andy Lynch have meant team changes recently, and at this point it is too early to say when they'll be into full action. We hope it'll be sooner rather than later.

The Scottish Cup tie with Queen of the South proved that there is a place for Sunday football . . . though not every Sunday. The attendance of 27,000 was gratifying and one must give due credit to Queens for their part in producing such an entertaining match.

They may have lost five goals, but they retained their dignity and poise as a team and Celtic fans will remember their performance. And watch their future progress.

TODAY'S VISITORS

MOTHERWELL STICK TO ATTACKING FORMULA

MOTHERWELL, whose financial commitment, ambition and enterprise had them earmarked as a side to test the best in the Premier Division this season, come to Parkhead this evening third from the foot of the table!

It is not the situation that the experts would have predicted in August of last year. Not by a long way.

However, it is exaggerating the situation to suggest that Motherwell are now in a fight for Premier League survival. They've got games in hand and while these involve clubs like Celtic, Aberdeen and Dundee United the spectre of relegation is not likely to lay a chilling hand on the Fir Park squad. Not even in this rather topsy-turvy 10-club set-up.

Out of all domestic competitions and no hope of a European place via their league position, Motherwell are not moving into the final phase of the season with heads drooping.

They recognise they have a duty to their fans to provide football that is bright and entertaining. That has been the aim of their manager Willie McLean all through.

He held to that formula even when injuries prevented him fielding the same team week after week. And it will be a little time yet before the club can call on centre half Willie McVie who had a knee operation recently and will have to play himself back again via the reserves.

Motherwell's form droop in recent weeks has been disturbing and puzzling the Fir Park fans. The team is determined to fight its way through the poor patch and sees no reason why fluency and scoring touch cannot be recovered tonight at Celtic Park.

This is hardly surprising for the attitude of the clubs to the playing of football has always been positive. Neither manager Willie McLean nor manager Jock Stein have ever fancied the deep defence idea.

They prefer to do their "defending" around the 18 yard line of the opposition on the basis that provides greater opportunity for scoring goals (the object of the whole exercise) and is much more likely to keep the customers happy.

Manager McLean may well use the present situation to introduce one or two of his youngsters to the Premier Division scene with a view to next season's campaign.

However, for a Parkhead test against a Celtic team that wants to maintain its current points lead in the championship, manager McLean will have his regular forces lined up.

Goalkeeper STUART RENNIE demonstrated his skills in the Scottish Cup tie with Rangers at the week-end. The back four of WILLIE WATSON, COLIN McADAM, GREGOR STEVENS and JOE WARK isn't likely to be disturbed, but PETER MILLAR could be recalled to the midline in which area VIC DAVIDSON, IAN KENNEDY, STEWART McLAREN are also available.

Up front there's goalscorer WILLIE PETTIGREW and playmaker BOBBY GRAHAM plus JIM O'ROURKE, PETER MARINELLO and HARRY HOOD all seasoned professionals able to play in the striking zone or midfield.
