Let's welcome our visitors Aberdeen to Celtic Park for this afternoon's SPL match at our first home Saturday game in what feels like a very long time.

We had a very exciting encounter in the north-east on the opening day of the season and hopefully we can have a repeat of that today.

Much has been made of the fact that the Dons have yet to win a league match and I hope that they will do that soon - but not this afternoon.

Like many people I was hoping that they would have already had a league victory before they came here.

We are looking forward to a full Celtic Park which is always fantastic - I wish that we could play all our games at home, but we can't.

We have played more games away from home and we haven't done too badly and we have to maintain that good form today.

Aberdeen won't be taken lightly by us today - hopefully there won't be a problem for us but we are mindful that there could be a psychological element to affairs because we know that they have still to win.

That aside, that's not to say that they will come and win - we have to make sure they don't by approaching the game in the proper manner as we did at Ayr United on Wednesday.

Only by putting on a performance that warrants a victory for us will we be happy. It is fair to say that Aberdeen won't be terribly confident, but still we won't be complacent.

They have some good players who can create things like Eoin Jess for example so we have to be wary of them.

"We are looking forward to a full Celtic Park"

At the same time we have to put on a professional performance and even more importantly than getting an early goal is the way you play overall.

I hope that our supporters will be patient enough and I think that they will always forgive you as long as you play in an attacking way and create chances.

I believe that you can never legislate for goals - you can only put in a performance that warrants goalscoring chances.

But we will fully concentrate on this game today and hopefully we will then be able to travel to France with another good result under our belts.

New improved kit, same old passion. Re-launched 12-10-99.
