CLUB NOTES

The season upon which we are embarking may well be a make or break season for Scottish football. There is still a tremendous public for football, if the clubs can provide the fast entertaining games which the public want. The efforts to streamline the Leagues into smaller units which would perhaps result in brighter football having failed, it is up to the clubs and players to make the games more exciting and competitive within the present framework. Spectators are an integral part of the game, and very often the bigger the crowd the better the game because entertainers in every sphere respond to an enthusiastic audience. It is seldom that one sees a good game in a large ground unless it is well filled, so the public can play a vital part in helping the players put on a better performance if they turn out in bigger numbers.

The Celtic cannot complain on this score; in fact, we have some followers whom we would be glad to be rid of, and that is that section of followers who seem to take a delight in besmirching the good name of Celtic whether in victory or defeat. The Celtic management have condemned this conduct time and again, and we would appeal to our real supporters to show these hooligans in every way possible that we do not want their "alleged" support and we would be happy if they were conspicuous by their absence.

The most inclement weather which ushered in the League Cup kept down the attendances, but those who braved the elements at Tynecastle were rewarded by a real dour Cup tie. We were well on top most of the game but it was only in the dying minutes that Joe McBride clinched the issue by scoring, after a brilliant run by Jimmy Johnstone had spread-eagled the Hearts defence.

The Glasgow Cup had to be abandoned last year because of the glut of fixtures, so the Committee have decided to get it underway as soon as possible. We meet Rangers at Ibrox Park in the first round on Tuesday, 23rd August, with a 7.30 kick-off. We welcome this early opportunity to try and revenge that Scottish Cup defeat, and as the other members of the Old Firm are riding high it should be quite a contest.

Our opponents, St. Mirren, to whom we extend a hearty welcome, have been striving to strike a winning vein, and while the Love Street brigade has always proved doughty opponents in the past, it will be a shock if they leave Celtic Park with even one point.
