WHERE ONE SATISFIED COMRADE LEADS TO ANOTHER.

Origination by On-Line Text Ltd., South Street, Glasgow and printed by Alloa Printing & Publishing Company.

IT'S a pleasure for me to welcome you all back to Celtic Park at the beginning of a new season.

And I'm sure you'll join with me in wishing our Soviet guests this afternoon a happy stay in Scotland.

Moscow Dynamo are one of the most famous sides ever to emerge from that vast land mass which comprises the Russian Soviets.

They have already carved a permanent niche for themselves in world soccer history for being one of the first sides from Russia to venture into the western world.

Happily, given the recent welcome spirit of Glasnost permeating Russia, the undoubted abilities of the Russians will always be on show.

The match this afternoon is an ideal curtain-raiser to the season and follows a close season that has not been without its difficulties.

But out of these little vexations has arisen one good thing. I am now confident I have at my disposal mature professionals who are glad to play for Celtic. There are no bad apples upsetting this particular applecart.

Welcome to our Soviet guests

BOSS SPEAKS OUT

The signings of Mike Galloway, Paul Elliott and Dariusz "Jacki" Djiekanowski have delighted me and I'm sure many of you are desperate to see them play.

Unfortunately we must do without Paul Elliott for a week or so owing to a particularly vicious stomach bug which laid him low last week.

With all the recent speculation surrounding types of food poisoning, I felt it best not to take any chances, so he didn't accompany us on our Highland tour.

Big "Jacki" Djiekanowski did take part in the tour and delighted everyone who saw him with some beautiful skills and striking ability.

Each of these players and the remainder of the squad are itching to get their teeth into the new season proper.

Many of us feel that we gave our rivals too many generous gifts at the start of last season — a profligacy from which we were never to recover.

Judging by what I have seen of our close season preparations and given our clean bill of health things will be different this term.

NEWS BEAT

Programmed to perfection

CELTIC'S army of programme collectors are in for another treat this season.

For programme-collector extraordinaire, Tom McGouran has published the definitive catalogue listing every programme issued for friendly matches in which Celtic have taken part since the second world war.

Called simply, CELTIC - HOME AND AWAY FRIENDLIES, this invaluable wee collector's guide costs £1.50. It's a must for any collector of Celtic programmes.

This publication follows hard on the heels of Tom McGouran's publication last season, listing programmes issued for each of Celtic's post-war competitive matches.

I'm told that one went down well and I can't see this one faring any differently.

SPOT THE CELT

TAKE a close look at this picture and see if you can spot a familiar face - or at least a face that could become familiar in the months ahead. That's right, second from the left, looking slightly serious is new Celtic striker Jacki Dziekanowski. The picture was taken before a recent Poland World Cup qualifying tie against Sweden.
