A Scot gained league status for Ipswich

A SCOTSMAN helped build the modern Ipswich Town which became a professional club in 1936.

Twenty-five years later they were the champions of the Football League, the only club ever to achieve this in their first season in the First Division.

A. Scott Duncan, who died last month in his 88th year, became manager of Ipswich in November, 1937, six months before the club, (which was formed in 1887), gained admission to the Football League.

It was largely due to his efforts, which took him all over the country lobbying support, that this was achieved in May, 1938. The admission brought Scott a sovereign from the then captain, Captain John M. Cobbald, who struck the bet at the meeting of league clubs when Scott predicted Ipswich would top the poll.

Scott stayed with the club as secretary for a further three years after Alf Ramsey's appointment in August 1955, and then returned to his native Scotland.

A former player he was a well-known figure in the football world for many years and in a recent Ipswich club programme recording their former manager's death it was said: "Everyone connected with Ipswich Town is aware of the tremendous debt of gratitude he is owed".

After going professional in 1936 the club entered the Third Division South two years later. The Third Division title was won in 1953-54 and again in 1956-57. The Second Division championship was secured in 1960 61 and 1967-68.

And when Ipswich took the First Division crown in 1961-62 Alf Ramsey was manager. Previous bosses have been Bill McGarry, Jackie Millburn and Mick O'Brien.

Current holder of the managerial reins is Bobby Robson who is recognised as one of the most progressive bosses in the game today after a distinguished playing career which brought international recognition.

Four years ago the club decided to have a new badge. A competition was organised and drew 600 entries.

The horse on the badge is the Suffolk Punch, a sporting animal used for jousting in the days of Richard 1. Now it is an agricultural working horse and there are still many in the Suffolk area.

The wavy lines, signify that Ipswich is a seaport, and the turrets denote the many historical buildings in the town. And of course, a football had to be added to a design which has drawn many compliments.

A GREAT SHOW — BY THE TEAM AND FANS

We give a warm welcome this Sunday afternoon to our English visitors, Ipswich Town on their first visit to Celtic Park.

They are making a strong and genuine thrust for the English championship just as we at Parkhead have our sights firmly fixed on the Scottish title.

The talented manager Bobby Robson has at Portman Road England and Ireland caps and Scots who have played in our under-21 and under-23 teams.

They have three players on duty for England and we take on the challenge today without Danny McGrain and Kenny Dalgligh.

Of course, injury can take a player out of a side at any time and the changes we have to make for this game will provide answers for any future emergency.

Taking on Ipswich today was designed to keep things ticking over rather than have a blank playing week-end after the disappointment of losing the League Cup final.

Apart from the important job of putting the ball in the back of the net—everything was right about the team at Hampden. The players got a real lift out of it once the initial disappointment of going down to Aberdeen had passed.

And what a great show from our support. Aberdeen had a lot of fans in Hampden, but it was the strength of the Celtic contingent that gave the heartening gate of 70,000. And on such a poor weather day, too.

The Celtic followers stayed on in the rain right to the end and, even though they were as disappointed as the players, they recognised the effort by the team and showed it by their applause and shouts of encouragement.

Now it is on with the Premier League and today's match is a valuable one in the build up to the points campaign. It musn't be a friendly. We like to win ALL our games.

Like ourselves, Ipswich Town are jealous of club prestige and they want success in this mini Scotland-England occasion. Mark you, I don't expect it to be mini in gate terms for a Sunday match allows people to attend who are unable to get to Saturday's games.

Indeed, I hope it will turn out to have the same happy, family atmosphere that previous Sunday games at Celtic Park enjoyed.

And, of course, that Celtic win against one of the best teams today in England.

THE £240,000 STRIKER

GEORGE BURLEY

JOHN WARK

PAUL MARINER

Couple of seasons ago at Birmingham, the Ipswich Town eleven consisted of players who were apprentices with the club and didn't cost a penny in transfer fees.

Couple of weeks back the club signed striker Paul Mariner, valued at £240,000 in a deal which saw two Ipswich men go to Plymouth Argyle.

Other personalities at Portman Road include young Scots George Burley and John Wark now bidding for full Scotland places.

TODAY'S VISITORS

IPSWICH YOUTH POLICY PAYS BIG DIVIDENDS

PAUL MARINER, their recently acquired striker, is the most expensive signing in the history of Ipswich Town. In a deal which took two Ipswich players to his former club, Plymouth Argyle, the value of Mariner is set at £240,000. Three years ago he cost a mere £1500 when signing for Argyle from non-league Chorley!

But Ipswich is not a big spending club. They believe in bringing on their own players and the youth policy has been tremendously successful. Apart from Mariner only three other players in a staff of 40 have been bought. . . . goalkeeper Paul Cooper, midfielder man Pat Sharkey (from Portadown and centre half Alan Hunter.

All the others have come through apprenticeships at Portman Road

These are some of the players who are aiding Ipswich in a strong bid for the English League championship:

PAUL COOPER (Goalkeeper). Became first choice keeper after Laurie Sivell was injured in the opening game of last season. Joined the club on loan from Birmingham City in April, 1974, and made his debut against Leeds United before signing in a £30,000 deal. Missed only two games last season.

LAURIE SIVELL (Goalkeeper). Spotted in boys' football in his native Lowestoft. Made his debut against Liverpool in season 1969-70. After losing his place to Cooper was recalled in March this year at Villa Park and another injury kept him out for rest of term.

GEORGE BURLEY (Full back). Cumnock-born he has represented Scotland at schoolboy, youth, under-21 and under-23 level. Made excellent debut for Ipswich at 17 against Manchester United in direct opposition to George Best. Hasn't looked back and has now topped the century of League appearances. Was in Scotland's under-21 squad which met Czechoslovakia last month.

MICK MILLS (Full back). Club captain. Completed ten years with the side last season. Is a member of England's World Cup squad and also played for his country at youth and Under-23 level. Came to the club when Portsmouth scrapped their youth policy and has been an ever present for over four seasons. Began his career as a midfielder player but then switched to fullback, though he plays both roles with equal success.

LES TIBBOTT (Full back). A courageous player who has suffered a leg break . . . and come back. Has won Welsh youth caps and made his debut last season against Coventry

BRIAN TALBOT (Midfield). Ipswich born he joined the club straight from school and made his debut in 1974. Broke a leg in a League Cup tie at Leeds in September, 1975, but fought back against the injury to reclaim his place before the end of the season. Has made a great start to the current campaign and is included in Don Revie's squad of 22 for the World Cup tie with Italy.

ALAN HUNTER (Centre half). Joined Ipswich in 1971 from Blackburn Rovers after previous service with Oldham Athletic. He is the club's most capped player having been Northern Ireland's first choice centre half since 1970 and now captains the side. Played against Belgium in World Cup tie in mid-week. Voted the club's "Player of the Year" last season he has made 197 League appearances.

DALE ROBERTS (Defender). A member of the England youth squad that won the Little World Cup last year, he joined Ipswich as a schoolboy in 1973 and signed as a professional in 1974. He has made several league appearances since his debut in December 1974.

KEVIN BEATTIE (Defender). Joined Ipswich in 1970 from school in Carlisle and has played for England youth, Under-23 and full international matches. Made his debut in the opening game of 1972-73 at Old Trafford and has made great progress. Twice been voted the club's "Player of the Year" and was also the first winner of the PFA "Young Player of the Year" award in 1974. Is a member of England's World Cup squad.

JOHN WARK (Midfield). Arrived at Ipswich in August, 1973, from Drumchapel

Amateurs and made his first appearance during the English Cup marathon with Leeds United in 1975, blotting out Alan Clarke in the third replay at Leicester. Was in the side which lost the semi-final replay to West Ham at Stamford Bridge. A Glasgow boy, he has played in Scotland's youth and under-21 sides and with Burley is one of the fine crop of young men waiting the call-up to Scotland's full international squad.

COLIN VILJOEN (Midfield). Injury kept him out of the side from October last year, but is now on his way back in his testimonial year. Joined in 1965 as an amateur and scored a hat-trick on his league debut against Portsmouth in 1967. Born in Johannesburg he has played for England and now that he has fully recovered from injury is chasing his place again in the Don Revie squad. Made only nine league appearances last term and is now approaching his 300th game.

KEITH BERTSCHIN (Striker). England youth cap and the club's leading scorer with 28 goals as they clinched the Football Combination League title last year. Was named as league side substitute against Arsenal at Highbury in April and came on to score with his first touch — a header! Scored a further goal against West Ham to finish the season with two goals in two and a half games. Joined the club in 1973 and has been a regular marksman since.

TREVOR WHYMARK (Striker). Was in Ipswich youth side in 1967-68 as an amateur. Signed as full-time professional in 1969, made his debut in February 1970. Dangerous in the air he was the leading scorer in the league side with 13 goals last season. Has seven Under-23 caps, made 198 league appearances and scored well over 50 goals, including four against West Brom last week.

PAUL MARINER (Striker). Most expensive signing in the history of the club. Valued at around £240,000 in a deal with Plymouth Argyle which took John Peddalty and Terry Austin in the opposite direction. A striker who made a late start to his senior career, signing for Argyle on his 20th birthday from Cheshire non-league side Chorley. His value then was a mere £1500, but now, at 23, is tipped for full England honours in the near future. Born in Bolton he made his debut in the 1-0 win over Manchester United a couple of weeks ago and last week was seen on television scoring his first goal for the club against West Bromwich.

CLIVE WOODS (Striker). A skilful winger who joined in May 1969, from local minor football. Has also been used in midfield. Made almost 100 league appearances and been a substitute almost 50 times.

Clydebank recruit

CLYDEBANK recruit Alex Jamieson who travelled as substitute with the Ipswich Town side is another of the young Scots being "schooled" at Portman Road. Alex is from Clydebank and has only recently become a full professional player.

While the Ipswich league side finished sixth in the English table last season the reserve and youth teams were winning the Football Combination and the South-East Counties League.

Rising gates?

WHO said falling attendances? Not Ipswich Town. In the past ten seasons the average gates at Portman Road have risen from 12,472 to 25,366.

Scots have played their part in the Ipswich story.

Frank Brogan was their leading scorer in 1967-68 with 17 goals, a figure which hasn't been exceeded since.

Roy in guest spot

ROY AITKEN, the young Celtic midfield man, is the guest on Hot Line next week, one of the attractive features in the 12-page Celtic View on sale every Wednesday.

Cyril aids Wales

AN absentee from the Ipswich Town party today was first team coach Cyril Lea. However he'll be in Glasgow this week — at Hampden with the Welsh team taking on Scotland in a World Cup tie. Taking over the English side at Parkhead was reserve team coach, Bobby Ferguson, the former Newcastle and Derby player.

Next home game

Celtic's next home game is against KILMARNOCK on Saturday, November 27. The kick-off is 3 p.m.
